Oh What A Spring!

Scholarship Luncheon and Convocation

Thursday, April 17, 1997

To show its appreciation to scholarship donors, the College held its second annual scholarship luncheon in the Union Ballroom. Attending were 54 donors, 104 students who receive scholarships and 53 guests, some of whom were invited by the students as being especially influential in their decision to come to college. Junior Robin Dunkel, food science, spoke on behalf of the students in thanking the donors; Harold Hicks (BSA 1947; MSA 1964), retired Extension agent, spoke for the donors, using a personal example of the difference a scholarship made in the life of one student. Our College awarded 464 scholarships totaling $368,200 during the 1996-97 academic year. Thanks to the donors and congratulations to the scholarship students.

The College Convocation immediately followed the luncheon and was held in the Union Theater. Mark Simmons, owner and chief operating officer of Simmons Foods, Inc., Siloam Springs, spoke off the cuff and from the heart as he outlined for students and faculty the skills and qualities industry is looking for in college graduates. John W. White Award recipients were: Tracy Leonard, agricultural business/animal science, Outstanding Student; Nick Anthony, poultry science, Teaching; Terry Siebenmorgen (BSAgE, 1979), biological and agricultural engineering, and Dick Oliver (BSA 1964; MS 1966), agronomy, Research; and Lanny Ashlock (BSA 1965; MS 1967) and Kent Rorie (BSA 1974; MS 1979), Extension. The Alumni Society Outstanding Advising and Student Relations Award went to Ed Piper, animal science. Justin Morris (BSA 1958; MS 1961), food science, received the Spitze Land Grant Faculty Award, and interior design students,
Laura Woolly Gibbs and Lori Newton, were Senior Scholar and Presidential Scholar, respectively.

Dean Charlene Mooty's Retirement Party

May 2, 1997

Faculty and staff from our College and the campus joined current and former students and her family to wish Charlene Mooty a happy retirement. Associate Dean for Instruction for the last 11 years and a CAFLS faculty member for 19, Dean Mooty is noted for her graciousness and her advocacy for students. She will be missed.

Commencement

May 10, 1997

The Broyles Athletic Complex was again packed with family and friends as Betty Bumpers addressed the Class of 1997. Recalling her days growing up on the family farm in Franklin County, Mrs. Bumpers related the hard work and responsibility she learned doing chores on the farm to her later acceptance of responsibility in public life. She encouraged the graduates to become contributing members of the world community as she has done through her work with Peace Links and childhood immunization. Dr. Perry Adkisson (BSA 1950; MS 1954) received an honorary doctorate degree, and Jack Justus (BSA 1954), executive vice president of the Arkansas Farm Bureau, was named Outstanding Alumnus. About 155 students were honored as new graduates and alumni of the Dale Bumpers College of Agricultural, Food and Life Sciences and the U of A.

A New Look

To celebrate its tenth anniversary, The Graduate is scheduled to undergo a facelift. Over the years, the pictures and print have gotten smaller and more difficult to read. A larger format is being considered, and your input on what to include and emphasize is being sought. Usually an issue covers alumni news, student activities, faculty updates and special events. Do you favor adding a message from the Dean, from the president of the CALFS Alumni Society? An historical column? How often would you like to receive The Graduate? And does its name need revision? Please let us hear from you about the kind of news you would like to see in your alumni newsletter.
